Is parking your bike driving you up the wall? Park it there, then!

And if you don't have a wall, you can stick your bike on a balcony, in a garage, a shed, or in your garden... so no-one will trip over it!

WE KNOW what it's like with a bike. You ride it to keep fit and healthy and do your bit to save the environment... then all your good work falls apart when you have to park it. One moment it's a convenient form of transport; the next, it's an extremely inconvenient and cumbersome obstacle that manages to get in everyone's way and can turn your family, friends, neighbours or colleagues against you if their shins find it before you can warn them.

But if, like most people, you just don't have room to park your bike safely, what can you do? The only answer, until now, was to put up with it – or put yourself before the planet and give up cycling altogether.

But we at BikeAway, the leaders in cycle parking technology, have come up with some simple solutions that will help you park your bike safely in less space than you'd have ever believed possible.

BikeAway's inventor, Jason Hamlyn, took the bike-parking problem and stood it on its head – or rather its back wheel – and he has even come up with a brilliant device for attaching a chain to a wall, so you can give those poor railings a rest and chain your bike securely to the garage wall instead.

You can also have a Zip-up Cover to keep the rain off your bike, or choose a minimalist Wall-Hoop BikeAway with a double hook – ideal for hanging your wet-gear and helmet on.

There's even a designer

NOW YOU SEE IT, NOW YOU DON'T: A BikeAway With Cover in a garden and (below) a Double BikeAway

STANDING CONVENTION ON ITS HEAD: A Wall-Hoop BikeAway (left) with Chain Holder holds a bike securely up against a wall. The patented Chain Holder (above) lets you bolt a chain to any wall – and when the chain's in place, no-one can get at the bolt to remove the holder! The Free-Standing BikeAway (below) has already proven itself at the St Ives (Plymouth) printing and publishing premises, where 15 bikes can now be parked comfortably in a space that used to take only eight bikes in an untidy heap!

Free-standing Double BikeAway that holds two bikes!

Whichever combination you go for, your bike will be easy to park (anyone fit enough to ride a bike can park it in a BikeAway in less than 10 seconds) – and your BikeAway, made of bike-friendly industrial-strength materials, should last at least as long as your bike. Happy cycling!

HOOP

Just lift the front slightly then slide it down over the front wheel to hold your bike in place

EASY-PEASY PARKING!

The Free-Standing BikeAway bolts to the ground – no need for a wall – and is ideal for a balcony, garage or garden. There's absolutely no metal-to-metal contact, so it's kind to your bike, too. And parking's a doddle! All you have to do is stand your bike on its back wheel, roll it in, then lower the red hoop over the front wheel. That's it!

SOGGY SADDLE?

Never again, if you buy our weatherproof Zip-Up Cover

RAMP

Keeps your bike off the ground without damaging your mudguards
